

JAY H NEFF HALL

SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM
UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI

THE INSPIRATION in the life of a distinguished Missouri journalist will grow and continue to be far-reaching because his worthy son has chosen wisely a memorial

Webster Hall, where Ward and the others of us prior to 1929 received our assignments.

JAY H. NEFF HALL is a gift to the University of Missouri School of Journalism by one of its graduates, Mr. Ward A. Neff. The building is a memorial to his father and bears his name.

The senior Mr. Neff, who died August 14, 1915, won a high place in Missouri journalism through his conduct of the Daily Drovers Telegram of Kansas City. With this stock yards daily as a nucleus the Neff family has developed a syndicate of similar dailies in the principal live stock cities, including Omaha, East St. Louis and Chicago.

Mr. Ward A. Neff was graduated from the School of Journalism in 1913, having completed the four-year course. He now lives in Chicago, and directs his publishing enterprises from a central office of the "Corn Belt Farm Dailies."

Jay H. Neff Hall is the first building to be given to the University of Missouri by one of its alumni.

Ground for the building was broken by President A. Ross Hill in May, 1919, Journalism Week. Construction work is under way now, and the building is to be ready for occupancy early in 1920.
